Mr. Blaine at Cincinnati.

[illegible] Oct. 2.—Mr. Blaine made a brief [illegible] to-day, urging on members the [illegible] of Western navigable rivers. In his [illegible] this evening, referring to Charles [illegible], he said Mr. Adams goes out [illegible] to speak of myself [illegible] personally offensive. I have neith[illegible] to exchange personalities with [illegible], but there is a very im[illegible] in the life of Mr. Adams, which at [illegible] is recalled. I commend facts [illegible] set forth to those voters, who [illegible] the sound of Mr. Adams' name to [illegible]. I [illegible] speak from records [illegible] the Republican victory of [illegible] in the election of Mr. Lincoln [illegible], then representative [illegible] sought with all [illegible] the country of everything [illegible] by that election, which was [illegible] be put in course of extinction [illegible] in the free Territo[illegible] as soon as the Southern Democrats in [illegible] their throes of disunion, Mr. [illegible] with fear, and his tongue be[illegible] every utterance except in support [illegible] whole course during the [illegible] of the thirty-sixth Con[illegible] Mr. Lincoln's [illegible] was one of treason [illegible] from the [illegible] every humiliating [illegible] to the South; [illegible] to abandon the [illegible] in the territories, and as the [illegible] and dishonoring conditions [illegible] the constitution of the United [illegible] the abolition of slavery im[illegible] as long as a single slave State should ob[illegible] so warmly urged by Mr. [illegible] that no amendment to [illegible] in any way interfering [illegible] in the States should ever be even [illegible] except by one of the [illegible] and should not be adopted except [illegible] of every State. When, in 1838, [illegible] into the Union [illegible] which forever prohibited the [illegible] slavery except with the [illegible] John Quincy Adams [illegible] infamous beyond the [illegible] and yet Charles Francis Adams [illegible] entreated and pleaded for an [illegible] the Constitution of the U. S. which [illegible] country far more infamous in [illegible] was contained in the Arkansas con[illegible] franchise you enjoy under [illegible] right to vote—the option of [illegible] the right of representation—even [illegible] by the ordinary process [illegible] Constitution; but Mr. Adams pro[illegible] a far more sacred guarantee [illegible] been given to liberty, and to enshrine [illegible] it beyond the power of [illegible] a slave State should [illegible] slave State vote for it. There [illegible] this in history; no ukase of Rus[illegible] in the darkest days of the Romanoff [illegible] ever so bound its own hands and [illegible] its own power to do mercy and [illegible] in the future as Mr. Adams [illegible] of the United States [illegible] own government for all time of the [illegible] slaves so long as one slave [illegible] and Mr. Adams has never for[illegible] sole for defeating this atroc[illegible] by Mr. Lincoln's [illegible] from his Illinois home [illegible] Elihu Washburn and oth[illegible] friends in Congress, the odious [illegible] without even a [illegible] but not until Mr. Adams had [illegible] plea for it and years [illegible] gone to a martyr's [illegible] with the tears of [illegible] emancipated negroes [illegible] to keep in eternal [illegible] took occasion in his eulogy [illegible] to and belittle and dis[illegible] man that has sat in the Presi[illegible] Washington. Mr [illegible] and paltry course [illegible] revenge over the [illegible] when living could [illegible] the constitutional amendment [illegible] advocated without a child of [illegible] and declared that no [illegible] so sterile, and no possible [illegible] as the proposition of Mr. [illegible] the continuance of the Union in [illegible] and hopeless and endless servitude [illegible] of men. Lincoln did not be[illegible] would result the perfidy of a Union [illegible] an atrocious wrong and crime in [illegible] toward Mr. Lincoln in his grave. [illegible] of Mr. Hayes will estimate his criti[illegible] leader and true man at pre[illegible] value; but for the honor of New [illegible] that of all her representatives Mr. [illegible] stood alone, I think, in supporting this infa[illegible]. Every other Massachu[illegible] was opposed to it. Hon. Alexander H. Rice, [illegible] Governor of that State [illegible] for re-election against Mr. Adams, [illegible] from all New England, as I have already [illegible] in that hour of supreme trial no other Republi[illegible] false to her principles and her lea[illegible] whose inheritance should have [illegible] the foremost defender of the right, [illegible] Mr. Adams had made this fearful [illegible] permanence of slavery to the [illegible] disunionists of the South, [illegible] to it in a formal speech the intima[illegible] was not acceptable to the South, he [illegible] some scheme of disunion if it [illegible] character. And now with [illegible] naturally supports Tilden [illegible] would go to conciliate the real [illegible] may be inferred from the ex[illegible] to which he was willing to go when he was [illegible] on the heels of a national Repub[illegible] victory, to concede more to the slave interest [illegible] fire eating advocate had ever de[illegible] in Congress. Imagine if you can; [illegible] you will, one possible condition [illegible] would impose on the legislation of Con[illegible] that Adams would not gladly support— [illegible] exaction the rebel Democrats could [illegible] that Adams would not gladly concede. [illegible] hesitate at anything a solid South [illegible]. Would he interpose his influence [illegible] the payment of any amount of rebel [illegible] Would he, I ask in all sincerity ever [illegible] against taking the right of [illegible] from the colored man, whose hopeless [illegible] he so lately advocated? [illegible] forgets the Republicanism of [illegible] Adams, she will elect his son. [illegible] making badly south of Yreka.]

On the base ball grounds yesterday, says the [illegible] Hawk-Eye, a red-hot ball stuck [illegible] just where his mother used to feel [illegible] with her slipper, and the umpire [illegible] "Dead ball." "Dead ball!" retorted [illegible] struck, "if there's a live ball on [illegible] that's it."

Attempted Suicide.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—About noon to-day some soldiers discovered a man near Presidio with his throat cut. The post surgeon took him in charge, and after bandaging the wound sent him to the city prison hospital. His name is found to be Ferdinand Newmark. The cause of the attempted suicide is financial troubles. There is but little hope of his recovery.

Suicide of a Well Known Sporting Man.

This afternoon Patrick Hogan, well known in sporting circles, shot himself in the left breast in North Point street. He was impelled to the act by having lost a large amount at faro on credit a few evenings ago, which he had promised to pay at noon to-day. The wound will probably prove fatal. Hogan was well known among the sporting fraternity of this State and Nevada.

Another Suicide.

A few minutes past one o'clock this P. M. the inmates of house No. 124½, Fourth street, heard the report of a pistol apparently in a room on one of the upper floors. Attention was called to the room occupied by Bernhard Bendel, the door was burst open and the occupant was discovered sitting in an arm chair holding a revolver in his right hand and in the left hand a cigar and his hat. Blood was oozing from a bullet wound above the right ear, but the man was still breathing. A messenger was dispatched for a physician, but the man died in a few minutes after he was found. It appears he entered the house about one o'clock, and immediately proceeded to his room and locked the door. It is stated that he attempted to commit suicide a few days since by swallowing a dose of morphine, but his design was discovered in time to prevent serious consequences. The deceased was unmarried and a member of the firm of B. Bendel & Co., proprietors of the Empire Match Factory, corner of Eleventh and Harrison streets. The coroner has examined the effects of the deceased, but fails to find any writing which throws any light upon the cause of the suicide.

Funeral of James Lick.

The Society of California Pioneers have secured Mechanic's Pavilion for funeral services of the late James Lick. The time set is 1 o'clock P. M. on Wednesday the 4th instant. Rev. Horatio Stebbins has agreed to pronounce an eulogium on the deceased. From the pavilion the funeral will move through the principal streets.

Montenegro Willing to Make Peace.

RAGUSA, Oct. 2.—The Montenegrin Government is understood to be prepared to accept terms of peace based on an extension of territory, although the people favor a continuance of war.

Turkish Victory.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The Times' correspondent at the Turkish headquarters says Thursday's battle, both as regards the losses and the numbers engaged, was decidedly the greatest of the whole war. In front towards Morava the Servian attack was merely directed against the Turkish bridge. The main attack was against the Turkish left wing under Haletric and Ali Pasha, in order to cut off the Turkish retreat to Nisich. Servian battalions also crossed Morava at Drachevoe and advanced by way of Jeseca against the Turkish right under Falobin Pasha. This double flanking movement completely failed and the Servians, by noon, were drawn back at all points with great loss. They subsequently renewed the attack against the Turkish left three times, but were on every occasion repulsed with great loss. The Turks having kept on the defensive, their loss was only 550. Among the wounded brought in on the Servian side are many Russian officers. The Servian officers had to drive their soldiers to attack at the sword's point.

Servia's Account of Thursday's Battle.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—A telegram to the Times from Belgrade says a dispatch from the headquarters of the army of the Morava announces that on Friday the Turks from Schelisgwatz attacked the Servians on two sides. The Servians maintained their positions. Fighting was resumed on Saturday. The Servians sustained considerable loss. The Russians displayed great bravery. Two Servian and thirty Russian officers were killed. The same dispatch says a rumor has reached Belgrade that the Turks will accept the peace conditions provided Servia be made to do so likewise. Four hundred Russians arrived at Belgrade Saturday.

The Russians Prepared to Move at any Time.

A special dispatch from Berlin to the Times says that a considerable portion of the Russian army has received orders to be ready for immediate concentration. The cavalry and field artillery are now on a war footing, and the infantry are ready to march.

The Czar's Letter.

The Times' Berlin correspondent gives substantially the same account of the Czar's letter to the Emperor of Austria as that given by its Paris correspondent and published this morning.

R[illegible] Averse to War.

The same correspondent says the Czar proposes that Servia shall retain her present independence under Russia. Notwithstanding steps taken by her in Servian affairs there is a pretty general conviction that Russia does not wish to go to war. Austria's answer will probably refer the question of military occupation to the joint decision of the guaranteeing powers.

WHAT THE BETTING MEN THINK.

POOL SELLING ON INDIANA AND OHIO ELECTIONS.

[From the N. Y. Times.]

At Morrissey's pool rooms, last night, the chief betting was on the October elections in Indiana and Ohio, and several pools were sold. Williams was taken as the first choice on several occasions, but Harrison the Republican nominee for governor, invariably brought the most money. For secretary of State in Ohio, Barnes, the Republican candidate, was a pronounced favorite. The averages of the pools were as follows:

INDIANA—FOR GOVERNOR.

Harrison, Rep	$50	$60	$70
Williams, Dem	50	50	55

OHIO—SECRETARY OF STATE.

Barnes, Rep		$15	$[illegible]
Bell, Dem		25	[illegible]

Forest Hill, England, was the scene of much excitement recently, owing to an advertisement in a morning paper stating that a domesticated young lady was wanted "to assist a lady in her household, to take the place of a lost niece, and receive all her advantages of salary, marriage-portion, and future provision in life, with a comfortable home." An early train brought down some thirty or forty elegantly dressed young women, nearly all traveling first class, and the number of applicants during the first day is estimated at 500. A similar number came on the following day, and upward of 150 letters were received by post. It appears that the advertisement was practically for a maid of all work.

The Walla Walla Watchman says: During the week Main street has been crowded with teams hauling wheat to the depot. Wheat appears to be advancing a little in price. It now sells for 37 cents a bushel.

There are about 162 driving parks in the United States, owning property estimated at $5 000 000. The horses entered in a single year are worth $15,000,000.

A REASON FOR A "UNITED SOUTH."

Mr. Manton Marble truly says that Mr. Tilden's "position in respect to the war was never open to the slightest doubt." It certainly was not.

In 1854 he said to Preston King that the formation of the Republican party in opposition to the slave oligarchy, "would either be a political blunder, or it would be a political crime, in creating a conflict in which the government would probably perish."

In October, 1860, he wrote to William Kent that the framers of the Constitution "recognized no right of constitutional secession, but they left revolution organized when it should be demanded by the public opinion of a State—left it with power to snap the tie of confederation, as a nation might break a treaty, and to repel coercion, as a nation might repel invasion."

In February, 1861, he declared at the Tweddle Hall Convention that "he for one would resist, under any and all circumstances the use of force to coerce the South into the Union."

In April, 1861 he refused to sign a simple patriotic call for a public meeting in New York upon the fall of Sumter.

In February, 1863, he was one of a dozen of the extremest "Copperheads" in the city of New York who formed a society to publish and diffuse, in the darkest hour of the war, the most virulent "Copperhead" speeches and pro-slavery documents, which was doing the work of the rebellion as effectually as shipping arms and ammunition to the rebels. This society of Mr. Tilden's published, among other things, a speech of James Brooks, in which he said that Mr. Lincoln's proclamation of September, 1862, "seems to contemplate the exciting of the slaves to the destruction not only of their masters, but of women and children."

It published a speech of Mr. Pugh, in which he declared that "the war might have been avoided * * had not Abraham Lincoln and the leaders of the Republican party refused—constantly, persistently, stubbornly refused—any terms whatsoever. * * We have no governor, in truth, we have only a being. * * If I am arrested, as I may be to-morrow or before sundown, and dragged into the presence of a military commission, as Vallandigham was, will you act?"

It published a speech of Richard O'Gorman when Horatio Seymour was governor of New York, and the rebels hoped he would try to withdraw the State from the war. Mr. O'Gorman said, and Mr. Tilden's society published and diffused his words:

"I fear much that, under the pretext of restoring the Union, we are strengthening the hands of those whose policy tends to destroy our liberties. Do you ask what, then, is to be done? I say the first thing to be done is to arm the State of New York. Let our soldiers be drilled, then, not merely for parades in the streets, but in camps of instruction, and let them be prepared as men to defend the rights of our State. Although the Union may fall, liberty may be preserved, and the State may be sovereign yet. Let us remember that each State in its inherent sovereignty is independent in itself. Then we are for the Union as long as it can be supported."

This was what Mr. Tilden and his society were publishing and diffusing to cheer the soldiers in the field and strengthen the national patriotic purpose at home in the most critical moment of the struggle. Mr. Marble says truly that Mr. Tilden's "position in respect to the war was never open to the slightest doubt." It certainly was not, any more than that of Fernando Wood, Vallandigham, or Jefferson Davis.

In August, 1864, Mr. Tilden was the New York member of the platform committee of the Chicago Democratic Convention, which reported, without dissent, a resolution denouncing the war as a failure, and demanding a cessation of hostilities.

These facts are undeniable; and whoever may be the Nathan murderer, as the Boston Herald humorously suggests, these facts establish that Mr. Tilden gave his money, his time, his influence by word and pen, to the cause of the rebellion. He served it very much more effectively than he could have served it in the field. He declared the course of the government not only to be constitutionally indefensible, but practically futile and hopeless. He encouraged in the publications of his society the most rancorous hostility to the administration and to the war. In the same way he paralyzed patriotism and discouraged the raising of men and money. Finally, he declared the war a failure; and when his words were disproved by the event, he joined in Wade Hampton's declaration, in the Democratic convention of 1868, that the reconstruction acts were revolutionary, unconstitutional, and void. And this he did under the plea of preserving the constitutional guarantees of liberty—a plea made in the interest of an infamous conspiracy to overthrow this government and perpetuate slavery upon the continent. After a war so fierce, prolonged, and consuming, to maintain the Union—a contest in which his views and his efforts were hostile both to liberty and to the great principle of the Union—a war which has left strong passions inflamed and momentous issues springing from it to be met and treated—is there any reason why a man who held in 1860 that the Union was a "tie of confederation" which any State might rightfully "snap," and who gave his money, his reasoning, and his countenance to those who were trying to snap it, should now be made the Chief Magistrate of the Union merely because he calls himself a "reformer."

GREENBACK SPEECHES.

CONGRESSMAN LANE'S DEPARTURE FROM DEMOCRATIC FAITH.

[From the Roseburg Independent.]

The court house was about half filled last Saturday evening, on the occasion of the meeting of the Tilden and Hendricks club. About one third of the number present were Republicans, attracted to the meeting by announcement made beforehand that Hon. L. F. Lane and others would make speeches. Mr Lane was the first speaker introduced. He began his speech by alluding to the new dodge of Democratic office-seekers. Then he declared that starvation was staring 40,000 people in the face, and attributed this deplorable fact to the Republican party on the grounds: (1) It legislated for the rich man, as shown by the issue of government bonds, selling them at 40 cents and agreeing to pay them dollar for dollar; (2) Republicans claim that the principal and interest should be paid in gold coin [the agreement of the government], but greenbacks are a legal tender for all debts except duties on imports and interest on government bonds, and, said Mr Lane, who will say, who understands the first principle of law, that the principal of the bonds cannot be paid in greenbacks! He denounced the whole Republican party because Grant accepted Belknap's resignation, but before he got through telling how his views have been enlarged, how he was no longer a stringent Democrat as he once was, he said the Republican members of the Senate voted guilty in the evidence against Belknap, but acquitted him on the ground of jurisdiction. He charged the whole Republican party with corruption, and then said he found men in Congress—Republicans—honest conscientious and faithful in the discharge of their duties. He compared the expense of the Government now with what it was under Buchanan, but forgot to say that this increase is on account of the interest now paid on the public debt and pensions for soldiers maimed and crippled in the great—well, for fear we will be charged with flaunting the bloody shirt, we will say, war in China. The speaker did not propose a remedy for any of the evils he described except to intimate pretty strongly that the Government bonds ought to be paid in greenbacks, and utter that sage suggestion, we must have a change. He referred to the Bell land bill as a measure that had once before been introduced in Congress by Col. Nesmith and endorsed by Governors Grover and Irwin, but he did not quote from Mr. Edmunds' speech in the Senate where the Senator from Vermont denounced the provisions of the bill as unlawful, unjust and intended to consummate a job.

Hon. J. F. Gazley followed Mr. Lane with the old trite remarks about the salary grab a measure that would never have become a law had not Democrats voted in its favor, and for which both political parties should be held equally responsible. In speaking of the Government bonds, not being so discreet as Mr. Lane, he said "Where is the moral, legal or equitable reason why those bonds should not be paid in greenbacks?" He charged the Republican party with all manner of crimes—with theft, murder, arson, etc., but all the time forgot to mention that once he was a Republican himself, that he then endorsed as all perfectly right and proper those things which he now condemns, and that he never became a Democrat until he thought he could secure control of the Canyonville and Galesville wagon road by doing so. Mr. Gazley's memory appeared to be as defective as Mr Lane's.

THE TERRITORIES.

A teamster at Port Madison had his collarbone broken on the 23d.

Judge J. D. Mix sold his fine farm near the garrison, at Walla Walla, to Jesse Drumheller, price, $5 000.

The steamer Wenat entered the Puyallup river a week ago, the first steamboat trip on the river, to load with hops for New Tacoma.

Walla Walla valley is literally loaded with grapes and other kinds of fruit, much of which will this year go to waste, thereby causing a loss the valley of many thousand dollars.

Since January 1st 86 licenses other than marriage have been issued by the auditor King county, as follows: Ferry, 1; billiard table, 1, lottery, 1, wholesale liquor, 7, grocery, (beer saloons) 24; retail liquor 52. The aggregate for all the liquor licenses being close upon $20 000 a year.

Waterman & Katz are lengthening out their wharf, at Port Townsend, 120 feet, and erecting upon it a warehouse of 30x40 feet. Dr. N. D. Hill is building an addition to his brick drug store, 12x26 feet and two stories high. Mr. H. L. Tibbalis is putting an addition to his residence of 22x36 feet. The Presbyterian stone chapel is being shingled, and the county jail is about done.

Mr. Benson, the ferryman between Port Townsend and Whidby island, says the Argus, while on a trip to Smith's island, on the 25th ult., in the sloop Twilight, picked up a man about half a mile off Point Wilson, in a fearful condition. He had been out three nights and two days, in an open skiff without provisions, and was so far gone as to be hardly able to speak or move. Had it not been for the timely aid rendered by Mr. Benson, he must have perished a victim to starvation or suffered a less miserable death by drowning. He was kindly cared for.

A letter from Guemas Island to the Intelligencer, says: There is a promising copper mine, now being worked on the island. The proprietors, Messrs. Morgan & Bryant, are running a tunnel of about 150 or 200 feet, to tap the lead at a distance of 90 or 100 feet from the surface, and expect by the middle or latter part of December next to be taking out ore. They have shipped to San Francisco about 1,500 pounds of ore that will go about 20 per cent., as a sample, to let the people know that we have other resources than our potatoes and clams, which, by the way, are abundant. Potatoes, however, are a little blighted. There are several other discoveries of minerals on this and adjacent islands. On Fidalgo, Mr. Shultz has a good prospect for a copper mine. Mr. Wiley has a gold lead on Jack Island that assays $18 54 per ton, besides iron ore, plumbago, nickel, etc. The last named have not been found in sufficient quantities to pay as yet. We have good farming, timber and mineral lands.

OUR SALMON INCOME.

OREGON CITY, Oct. 2, 1876.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

I have been awaiting the publication of some method or suggestion applicable to the protection of our salmon interests in the Columbia river and its tributaries, but so far no illuminator has appeared upon the scene to make the darkness flamboyant with the light of his genius, and unravel the perplexities that seems to enfold the whole matter. The salmon industry is too valuable a one to leave to the rapacity of catchers for the next two years without some legislative enactments in the meantime calculated to perpetuate the species. It must be had or else before another legislative session the business will be so crippled as will likely require years to recuperate it. As it now is, more gold swims yearly into the Columbia than is gleaned from the soil of Oregon. We must somehow legislate so as not to kill the goose that lays this golden egg, but in some way encourage it. The only plan I have been able to conjure up is: after ascertaining the traveling propensity of the fish, and its best propagating season, to embargo the catchment at Astoria for one week during a stated period to be fixed by authorized commissioners, and so regulate this one week of embargo on a sliding scale as to extend from Astoria to the Upper Columbia: For instance, after the traveling instinct has been gauged, if it is found to be 10 miles per day, successive points must be named on the Columbia river, at which time the embargo shall begin, and if Westport is found to be 30 miles from Astoria, the one week of suspension of business must commence three days after it begins at Astoria, and so on ad infinitum. This is very cumbersome, but it is the only possible method I have been able to devise except propagation, that will meet the requirements of the situation, unless the restriction of catchment is made to cover so great a length of time as will prove ruinous to the fishermen.

As to propagation, a few mother salmon would be prolific enough to keep up our stock in trade probably, if the matter was taken hold of systematically, and this may be the open sesame we are seeking after to preserve us our treasure in the sea; but no time is to be lost if anything is done at this session of the legislature to bring about this desideratum.

N. Y. Z.

HE NEITHER ANSWERS NOR REMEMBERS.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

On the day of the political discussion, at Jacksonville, between Hon. Richard Williams and Hon. Lafayette Lane, Mr. Williams asked Mr. Lane how he (Lane) would vote upon the amended bill to amend the constitution so as to prevent sectarian interference with the public school fund.

Mr. Lane refused to answer; and, on the contrary, got angry, and denied the right of Mr. Williams to question him as to what he would or would not do.

The question was a very proper one to which every intelligent voter demands an answer before casting his ballot, and the refusal on Mr Lane's part to answer it, exhibited a lack of candor unworthy of one seeking to occupy one of the highest offices in the gift of the people.

If Mr. Lane entertains political or religious views which he himself is ashamed of, he is not fit to represent the intelligent people of Oregon in the national legislature.

Mr. Williams charged Lane with voting solely and alone, with one Isaac Cox, in the legislature of this State, against a resolution, tendering a vote of thanks to the Union soldiers for their gallant services in putting down the rebellion. To this charge Mr. Lane replied that he had forgotten what he had done upon that occasion, notwithstanding Mr. Williams refreshed his memory with the record. His short memory doubtless acts as a soothing syrup to allay the burning of his conscience. Mr. Williams made an eloquent and stirring speech, coming squarely to the front on every question, dodging no issue, and defining his position manfully, while his opponent squirmed and wriggled, evidently afraid of losing Catholic votes on the one side, or Protestant votes on the other. Dick Williams will be our next Congressman.

OREGON.

The Grant county Express has been revived.

The Evangelical session of Oregon is in session at Salem.

G. P. Litchfield has abandoned Alsea reservation, as agent, and turned over government property to Wm. Bagley, agent at Siletz.

M. L. Peterson a short time since killed a strange animal near the Teal hot springs, in Umatilla county. It was of the feline or cat species, perfectly white about 2½ feet in hight and measured, when its legs were stretched out, five feet in length. The animal was much larger than a panther. Its feet, however, were as large as those of the animal last named. The fur is similar to that of a beaver and had also long, coarse hair.

They seem to feel the anti Tilden wave out in Ohio, for the Cincinnati Commercial says: "It is pretty clear now that Hayes will be elected. The Democratic 'reform' movement is playing out. Tilden, as an iron hearted reformer, does not bear hammering. He got down from his high financial horse upon which he had been mounted in a scientific attitude for forty years when Hendricks displayed to him the importance of Indiana. It turned out when he and Hendricks came together that he was the weaker vessel. His special significance just now is that of the representative of the solid South in its rush to seize the National Administration for jobbing purposes, and the people at large are not prepared to pay the bills of the Southern Confederacy. The drift of public opinion is unmistakably against Tilden and solid Southern dictation in national job work, and each day will offer new testimony of the truth."

Twenty living and only three dead horses have done better than 2 20. The three ran in dead heats.

OUR SALEM LETTER.

SALEM, Oct. 1, 1876.

For the first time this summer we have had three consecutive days of what might be termed tropical weather, and Salemites generally, as well as sojourning legislators, have been sweltering accordingly. Several members of the legislative assembly having succumbed to the heated term on several occasions have laid aside all prejudices with their coats and dived into the work in their shirt sleeves.

OUR ANNUAL STATE FAIR,

Preparations for which are visible on every hand, and appearances indicative of an immense success. It all depends upon the weather, and if the "clerical aid" of the weather department will only vouchsafe to us smiles instead of frowns and tears, the centennial display of 1876 will without doubt be the grandest every given in this State. Mr. Waite, the never-tiring secretary, is leaving no stone unturned to make it successful, and takes as much interest in it as though it were a personal rather than a public affair. One noticeable feature this season promises to be the

TRIAL OF HAND FIRE ENGINES,

Several companies having signified their intention of competing for the prize. Tiger Engine Co. No. 5, of your city, will probably be on hand, as well as Lynn Engine Co., of Albany, and Tiger No. 2, of the Salem Fire Department. It is generally regretted that Capital Engine Co. No. 1, of this city, will be unable to compete. The matter was thoroughly canvassed, but so many of the members being absent from the city, and others being otherwise engaged during fair week, the powers that be have about concluded not to enter the list. Of course, Salemites are anxious to see the Salem firemen walk away with the prize, but time alone can tell.

BASE BALL MATTERS

Are beginning to look up a little, but what the intentions of the College Club are we are unable to say. The club met one evening this week and elected officers. At an adjourned meeting held last evening George W. Belt, was re-elected captain of the first nine. There will be several changes made in the nine, and when thoroughly organized they will present a solid front and make things lively for competing nines. They will be sustained with the best wishes of the Capitolians. The suicide of

MISS MARY JANE BILYEU,

Which occurred the fore part of the week, still furnishes food for gossip in this neighborhood. We notice several of the interior papers have pronounced severe maledictions on the head of he on whom she based her fondest hopes. We have lately conversed with a gentleman well informed regarding the attachment alluded to, who avers that the cause of her desperate act has been considerably exaggerated, and that the young men—Mel. Hamilton, of Scio—was really attached to her, the poverty of both parties being the hindrance to their marriage. In our sorrow for the dead let us not deal too harshly with the living, as he too may regret as deeply as any one her untimely end.

THE WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE CONVENTION,

Which has been in session here during the past week, evinced a lack of interest. Senator Bradshaw was present one evening, but no one caring to "prod him up," he had little to say, and spectators who had anticipated a red-hot controversy were doomed to disappointment. The regular bill ascribing to woman the right of suffrage has not yet made its appearance in either house, although the advent is daily expected. Mrs. Dr. Thompson, of your city, had Senator Thomson cornered on one occasion, and was, we imagine, making it rather tropical for him on the issues at stake.

THE STATE PRINTING OFFICE

Is run night and day, and like old Father Phoebus' stage coach, "on Sundays, and all in a heathenish way," so crowded are they with work. The State Treasurer's report will be out to-morrow, and bills are crowding in on them from both houses in almost endless number. Appearances indicate that Deady's code will be literally chopped to pieces unless, as to be hoped at least, three fourths of the amendments proposed die in the hands of the judiciary committee in either one House or the other. It's "nuts" for the State Printer, however, as at least nine tenths of the bills are printed, and "Mart" is correspondingly well pleased, and who can help envying rather than blame him under existing circumstances.

CAPITAL NOTES.

Joseph Cox, Esq., an old and highly esteemed citizen of this city, is lying very low at the residence of his son, Thos. H. Cox. He is not expected to recover.

Every spare room in the city is being engaged for fair week lodging places, being held above par on that occasion.

One week from to-day our ears will be regaled by the stereotyped cry of "all aboard for the fair ground."

Next Tuesday evening the legislative assembly will meet in joint convention to witness an exhibition to be given by the pupils of the Institute for the blind, under the supervision of Prof. C. H. Kaiser, who will, we understand, give a detailed account of the method of teaching.

Ed. Hall, of insurance fame, of your city, went to Eola to-day to appraise the loss by fire of the Teller property.

The various rooms formerly occupied by the Department of State are now used as committee rooms by the legislative assembly.

A couple of the female pupils of the blind school will manipulate sewing machines in the pavilion at the State Fair this year.

A half dollar store is the latest attraction for capitolians.

There is some talk of using the premiums offered for fire engines at the State Fair this year for base ball purposes, as it is rumored some of the engines heretofore expected will not put in an appearance. Should this be the case, look out for lively competition.

Jos. R. Wiley, of your city, gives universal satisfaction as sergeant at arms of the House.

Wm. Savage, the obliging janitor of the State House, has moved his family and household effects into rooms provided for him in the basement.

Mrs. Looney and daughters, of Jefferson, will take up their winter residence in this city during the ensuing week.

Dr. Nevius, of Eastern Oregon, officiated at the Episcopal church this morning and evening.

The annual conference of the Evangelical church is in session here at the present time.

Mrs. C. S. Woodworth, whose reputation as an organist is second to none in the State, and who at one time served in the same capacity in Trinity church, at Portland, has been engaged by the Presbyterian choir of this city.

Mrs. J. D. McCurdy is expected home this month from an extended tour in the Eastern States.

Thos. R. Sheridan assists Gus. Wheeler as lightning manipulator at the telegraph office in this city during the session of the legislature.

W. H. Leininger, who several months since went East to introduce an improved "shackle," has just returned to Salem, having disposed of his interest in them to his partner, Dr. G. W. Kibbee. They having proved a success he reserved the Pacific slope for future operations.

Senator Davis, of your county, is generally conceded to be the handsomest member of the upper house, Wisdom, of Baker, being his only rival.

To Senator Richardson, of our county, is accorded the honor of introducing the first bill of the session.

What action will now be taken relating to the exhibit of Oregon fruit at the Centennial?

Mr Higby, of Corvallis, delivered one of the best speeches of the campaign before the Hayes and Wheeler club at Reed's opera house Saturday evening last. The hall was well filled and enthusiasm ran high.

The Mercury bewails the slim attendance at the meetings of the Tilden and Hendricks club, and pleads with the faithful to turn out in greater numbers.

Wild geese are flying southward, and weather prophets predict cold weather.

Water has been introduced in the State Fair grounds, and men will commence sprinkling the track to-morrow, and the fountain in the pavilion will be playing before the close of the week.

Ample accommodations will be provided for the press in the east end of the pavilion on the State Fair grounds.

The officers and members of the Oregon legislature have been provided with complimentary tickets for the State Fair.

There being no races announced on the programme for Monday of State Fair week, and a number of horses being shut out of other races, the board of managers have offered a $200 premium, with $50 entrance fee for each horse added thereto, for running mile heats, best two in three, free for all horses, the race to take place Monday afternoon. The following horses are already entered, and others will compete: Billy Bigham, Eyestraw, Oatie, Oregon, Rose Mansfield and Tom Merry.

The Oregon State Grange have elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Wm. Cyrus, Scio, master; A. R. Shipley, Oswego, overseer; Mrs. E. W. Hunt, Sublimity, lecturer; T. L. Davidson, Salem, steward; W. H. Gray, Astoria, chaplain; W. B. [illegible], Walla Walla, steward; H. Graham, Vancouver, gate-keeper; William Cyrus, E. L. Smith and Robert Glow, executive committee.

JUDGE WILLIAMS AND CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

PORTLAND, Oct. 2, 1876.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

In the course of his [illegible] at Oro Fino Hall last Thursday evening, Judge Williams took occasion to give civil service reform a foul blow, of which he ought to be ashamed. In the first place he characterized it as a [illegible] political project, which aimed at nothing [illegible] nor less than to prevent any changes in the [illegible] of the country for political [illegible], and [illegible] said he was opposed to it and in favor of a clean sweep in the offices whenever there was a change of parties. How high, the honest and intelligent sentiment of the country may yet carry civil service reform, I am unable to predict. Certain it is to be met at every step of its progress by the bitter and unscrupulous opposition of those in both parties who make merchandise of the offices of the country for their own personal and sordid ends.

But civil service reform is not a mere impracticable sentiment of purity and [illegible] fit only for the millennium. It [illegible] is true, but at the same time [illegible] at the bottom and correct such glaring [illegible] and practical [illegible] as even the [illegible] of Judge Williams would not allow him to defend. For instance, it seeks and intends to prevent Gov. Gibbs, a Republican [illegible] attorney, from being removed from [illegible] by Judge Williams, the Republican attorney general, at the instance of John H. Mitchell, a Republican Senator, [illegible] said [illegible] torney, in the discharge of his [illegible] duty, had the [illegible] to prosecute [illegible] of bribes and [illegible], who constitute the [illegible] power and following of the Senator, for [illegible] of the United States laws regulating Congressional elections and the [illegible] in his [illegible] of a [illegible] Senator's [illegible] for the purpose of [illegible] such [illegible] with the Senator's peculiar [illegible] Is Judge Williams [illegible] of civil service reform? If he is, so much the [illegible] for him; the [illegible] will rest until [illegible]

[illegible] civil service [illegible] of Oregon, whom the [illegible] of Oregon have selected for the [illegible] a Senator, have [illegible] discharge that duty, the [illegible] elect their duty to swear to [illegible] by any means, good or bad, to [illegible] result; or if they do, that [illegible] their places. Is Judge Williams [illegible] this kind of civil service reform? [illegible] not, for if so, he would better pray for a change of heart and mend his ways.

And yet another instance. Civil service reform seeks to prevent a Republican [illegible] appraiser and collector of [illegible] moved from office at the [illegible] same Republican Senator, [illegible] refuse longer to be [illegible] the bankrupt personal [illegible] turer and railway [illegible] 'ator is a salaried attorney. Is Judge Williams opposed to that sort of [illegible] of civil service reform. I pause for a reply.

LETTER FROM DOUGLAS COUNTY.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 29, 1876.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

A few words from this point may be of interest to you or some one else. In the first place, I will say that we expect to roll up a good, healthy majority for Hayes and Wheeler and our Richard. Mr. Lane stands no [illegible] in Douglas county. There will be a Hayes and Wheeler club organized in Roseburg next Saturday; also in Cole's valley. We will do our best, and that is all any of them can do.

We had quite a stir here a few days ago. One Charley Haydon (not R[illegible]) took [illegible] away, to the [illegible] of sundry creditors, and one of his creditors procured the services of Nels. King as attorney and sent the [illegible] after him and brought him back, and the justice, without trial or conviction, sent him to jail. The sheriff refused to take him as a boarder, and now the question is, Where is Charley Haydon?

Yours,
OLD WEBFOOT.

ABOUT PARTY RESPONSIBILITY.

A correspondent whose communication appears elsewhere in this issue, criticises Judge Williams' remarks on civil service reform with severity, and it must be admitted not without justice. He does not, however, give Judge Williams' statement of the reason why he is opposed to civil service reform and in favor of the party spoils system which has produced such a vast harvest of corruption. It is but just that this reason should be presented to the reader, as he gave it, along with his other remarks on the subject. Whether the reason is sufficient or not, every one will judge for himself. He placed his advocacy of the spoils system upon the ground that under that system a party would be held responsible by the people for the conduct of those it placed in office. In our view there is nothing in all this threadbare talk about party responsibility, which is always urged by political sharpers in order to keep the people properly under the party whip, and sometimes by an honest man who has been deluded into the idea that there is such a thing as keeping accounts in that way with political parties. The whole thing is a fraud and swindle. No party ever yet was or ever will be held responsible for the conduct of its appointees, except to the most limited extent. It was not the notorious corruptions of Buchanan's administration, but the moral sentiments of the great North on the slavery question that overturned the Democratic party and elected Mr. Lincoln in 1860. The Republican party received the endorsement of the people of the nation in 1872, not because of the honesty of its officials, for corruption then honeycombed the public service; the party was not taken to account for its corruptions, but was continued in power in spite of them, because in its main objects and aims it had the hearty sympathies of the country. If there were anything but hollow pretense in this talk about party responsibility—if a party went to the wall or came off victorious in its contests before the people according as its official representatives had been pure or impure, how could Judge Williams have the face to ask a popular endorsement of the party of Belknap and Babcock and Joyce and McDonald and Davenport and Shepherd and Harrington, and the hundreds and hundreds of others whose names have filled the criminal chronicles of late? The testimony of Hon. D. P. Thompson before the Senate judiciary committee during the pendency of Judge Williams' nomination as Chief Justice, disclosed a transaction to which Judge Williams himself, was a party while Senator, such as would inevitably damn any party to which he might belong, under a system of actual party responsibility. Thus Judge Williams himself is an illustration of the emptiness of the claim that parties are to any saving degree held responsible for the conduct of their officers.

EXTRADITION WITHOUT TREATY.

The Tweed affair has placed the American government in a singular attitude touching the right of asylum. For some time America and England have been using up an immense amount of diplomacy and writing paper over the proper construction of the extradition treaty, both assuming that but for this treaty the right of asylum would be absolute and inviolable. Indeed, these two governments have been the most active in forcing upon the international commerce of the age the idea that extradition should only be allowed under treaty provisions, and that the ancient habits of the monarchies in that regard of picking up a man and handing him over whenever another monarch asked for him must be given up as altogether too barbarous for civilized nations. Now, unless we mistake, the United States has not and never had any extradition treaty with Spain. And yet our government demands that Tweed be given up, and Alfonso XII, with all the politeness of mediæval despotism, waiting not for treaty nor for judicial process, seizes the great Tammany boss and delivers him into the hands of the American agent. Suppose Spain should to-morrow find occasion to ask a return of the courtesy in the form of a surrender of some Castilian visitor of the centennial, who is wanted at home; what would the President say? Would he nab the individual and hand him over, without benefit of clergy, as he has just asked Spain to do, and as Spain has just done? If so, what is all this [illegible] about extradition treaties for? Why not dispense with them in all cases, if we can get along so much better without than with them? And if the President would not under the supposed case feel at liberty to give up the demanded individual, upon what pretense can he ask Spain to do so? Putting the case in this way shows at once what a singular position our government is placed in by the happening so nearly at the same time of the Winslow case and the Tweed case.

Mr. Chaplin, the English turfman, one of the ablest of the younger Conservative members of Parliament, is soon to marry Lady Florence Gower, daughter of the Duke of Sutherland. He is 36 and she 21. The proposed marriage excites some comment, as this is the first time the Gowers have married into a Conservative family. Mr. Chaplin was previously betrothed to Lady Florence Paget, who, on the eve of her marriage, slipped away and married Lord Hastings, a circumstance which sent Mr. Chaplin on the turf till he ruined his more fortunate (in love) rival.

It may be remembered by some of our readers that the Marquis of Hastings was ruined by the defeat of his mare Lady Elizabeth by Hermit, Mr. Chaplin's horse. Lady Elizabeth started first favorite for the Derby, and the Marquis had £100,000 depending on her success or defeat.

The Pittsburg Leader improves the opportunity presented by the last scandal concerning Theodore Tilton, to give English journalism this well-merited airing:

We shall learn from the London Times probably, that "the charge of defrauding the revenue tax so successfully brought home to the Democratic candidate for the Presidency, Gov. Theodore Tilden, of New Jersey, has been entirely eclipsed by the shocking discovery that he had a liason in a sleeping car with the wife of Mr. Jefferson Davis, late President of the late Southern Confederacy." And the London Telegraph will announce that "Mr. Samuel J. Tilton, the Republican candidate for President, has been involed in a serious scandal in connection with a Terre Haute railroad sleeping car. This reveals new depths in the abyss of American demoralization. Mr. Beecher has now taken the stump against him."

A Russian gentleman interested in horses and especially in trotting horses, has recently visited this country and inspected some of our famous trotters. The opinion he arrived at is expressed in a long letter to the Spirit of the Times and amounts to this, that the American horses are faster by about ten seconds in the mile than the Russian; but that the latter are more lasting and much the handsomer. He says that in Russia there is no such thing as training a horse until he has arrived at the mature age of six years, and it is to this that he attributes in a large degree the endurance of the trotters of his country. It is more than probable that he is right; for there can be nothing more likely to ruin a colt than to put it into training when it should be running about the field. At that age the bones are still growing and the form undeveloped, and violent effort is sure to distort the former and stunt the latter. It is a great deal wiser to wait a few years until the animal is grown and filled out. If one or two years' service is lost at the start it will be more than made up for at the end; for an animal allowed to mature before being broke will last a great many years longer than one put to hard work too soon.

That there has been a very great battle near Alexinatz between the Turks and Servians is all we know with certainty about the conflict. It is probable, however, from the character of the dispatches that the Servians have been completely routed. They committed a fatal error in dividing their forces and separating them so widely. Had their power been directed against the center of either army, the Servians might have been successful; as it is, it is likely that they have been terribly beaten.

Sam Purdy, the great trotter of the Pacific slope, has greatly distinguished himself at Philadelphia. He is credited with the best time ever made by any stallion but two. Sam Purdy was born and raised in California, and not trained until he was seven years old, and his bones firm and his muscles well set.

The Germans are already beginning to prepare for a great world's fair, to be held in 1880 or 1881. Five years is a good long time to look ahead even for a world's fair.

Vermont and Maine have set the ball rolling that will flatten out Tilden's conspiracy to capture the National Government by the votes of the solid South and a few scattering States in the North. The scattering States in the North will not be found.—Cincinnati Gazette.

The death of Dr. George B. Winship will revive all the theories about athletic sports and the theories about enlargement of the heart by undue exercise. Dr. Winship had enormous arms and shoulders, and once lifted a weight of 3,000 pounds, but he died at the age of 42.

PUBLIC SALE.

ON THE 5TH DAY OF OCTOBER, 1876, AT my farm in Pleasant Hill, Lane county, Oregon, at 10 o'clock, A. M., I will offer at public auction my entire outfit of Agricultural Implements and Farm Tools, Household Furniture, 31 head Stock Cattle, 12 head Swine, 50 pure Light Brahma Chickens, 1 lot Turkeys and Guinea Fowls, for Cash in hand.

Owing to important business that requires my immediate attention elsewhere, and will admit of no further delay, I offer on accommodating terms, one farm of 212 acres—title perfect—and consisting of 125 acres rich bottom land, the rest upland, covered with as fine timber as grows in the state; 150 acres under good substantial fence in ten different enclosures; 80 acres plow land; 30 acres under good cultivation; an orchard containing over 300 apple, pear, plum, peach and cherry trees, of the best varieties, and grape vines enough to set one acre; a good comfortable house 18x60 feet, with two stone fire places; a living spring runs water to the door; a new barn and stable 20x56, full to the top of Hay, Wheat and Oats; 1 wagon, 1 set Concord harness, 1 span mares, 1 colt, 3 saddles, 1 English double barrel Fowling Piece.

Also, adjoining, 1 farm, title perfect, of 80 acres, log cabin, 30 acres under fence in timothy, rich bottom land. These two farms are situated 4 miles east of Creswell depot, 12 miles southeast of Eugene, one mile south of Oregon Military Road, from which runs a county road to this farm. The range for sheep and cattle cannot be surpassed in the State. It is well watered.

Parties desirous of securing a good home in a pleasant and healthful location are invited to call and see for themselves.

Either or both places can be bought on easy terms on or before the day of sale.

RUPTURE!

No More Metallic Trusses Used!

No More Suffering from Iron Hoops or Steel Springs!

THE SUPERIORITY OF OUR ELASTIC Trusses over the rigid Iron Hoops, which in former days were the only resource of the ruptured, admits of NO ARGUMENT:

By means of this appliance the pressure on the Rupture itself can be made uniform and continuous, and to the extent required in each case, until a slight inflammation of the parts is secured, and the consequent effusion of lymph which is essential to a healing process, and from this time to the conclusion of the treatment, the pressure, being entirely within the control of the patient, can be lessened daily as the adhesion progresses and the body becomes sound. All cases of reducible Hernia are permanently relieved without regard to the age of the patient or the duration of the injury, while in its action it is wholly free from all the cruelty that has characterized the treatment of the malady with tortuous Metal Trusses from the earliest age to the present day. Your attention is called to the following facts:

1st—There are no springs to press upon or to injure the back.

2d—It is simple in construction, and not liable to get out of order.

3d—This instrument is worn with perfect ease while riding horseback.

4th—The Rupture is retained and the pressure the same while in any position.

5th—It has none of the injurious results of metallic Trusses.

6th—It will perform radical cures when all others fail.

7th—It is worn with ease and comfort night and day, which cannot be said truthfully of an metal Truss whatever.

Experience shows that all tempered spring Trusses necessarily press upon and often disease parts of the body that before were in a perfectly healthy condition. Lumbago and other equally distressing ailments are not unfrequently the outgrowth of such pressure, and in view of this fact it becomes a matter of decided consequence to avoid like calamities, if possible.

Examination Free. The closest scrutiny of physicians solicited.

Beware of Bogus articles called Elastic Trusses. Dr. ROWE, Inventor and Patentee of Elastic Trusses. All parties infringing either by sale or manufacture, will be dealt with in such manner as the law provides

IS IT A JOB?

PORTLAND Oct 2 1876

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

I understand that somebody connected with the public schools in this city is trying to get the law so amended as to do away with State uniformity so far as Portland is concerned, and to give the selection of the text books in this district into the hands of the directors The object, of course, is to get some of the books now in use thrown out and, perhaps to introduce somebody's pets in their stead Whoever may be interested in this scheme it is certainly not one that is likely to find much favor with those who patronize our public schools It is hardly three years since the books now in use were introduced at a heavy cost to the people of Portland, and it would be a great hardship to them to be compelled to make another change so soon Besides we were assured when the last change was made that we should not be called upon to make another probably for many years Now let that promise be kept It may be that some of our books are not acceptable to those who favor this proposed amendment to the law but as we have them, and as it cost us a good deal to get them let us keep them They are good enough even if they are not the best Whatever their alleged defects may be, our schools seem to be doing good work with them and that is all the people want

There is another view of the matter Is it likely that a board of directors such as we sometimes have in Portland will always be sure to make better selections of text books than those made under the present system? I know that just now we have an exceptionally good board but it isn't always so It is within the memory of some now living that we had a Borde Derekters one [illegible] in this city that without assistance would have been likely to make some very [illegible] selections of text books In the inscrutable decrees of that Ism Ince which sometimes [illegible] controls elections in Portland it may be written that we are to have other [illegible] Derekters in the future If that thing should happen let us have things fixed so that they may do as little harm as possible Indeed I am not sure that even our present directors efficient and capable as they undoubtedly are have just that kind of knowledge which would fit them to choose the best possible series of school books They are business men all of them and probably they have not [illegible] a text book of any kind since they left school twenty or thirty years ago I have a suspicion lurking in my mind that if the proposed change were made some body else and not the directors would make the selection

On the whole it seems to me in this case that it would be a good idea to just let it well enough alone CONSERVATIVE

EAST PORTLAND SCHOOL

A Teacher sends us the following concerning the public school of East Portland

The public school of this city is in a prosperous condition so far as the number of pupils is concerned The pressing want however is more room to accommodate the pupils It is impossible for teachers in such crowded school rooms to systematize everything pertaining to the school and to enforce that discipline which is essential to the progress of any school The time has come when there should be three or four grades established with a teacher for each grade then greater proficiency would certainly follow But this cannot be accomplished until a suitable building is erected We invite the citizens to visit the school and after seeing its crowded condition if they feel any interest at all for the welfare of the youth of this city they will certainly vote unanimously for a tax to build a creditable school house

The following is the status of the school for September

CINCINNATI April 1 1876
MESSRS LILIENTHAL & Co
Gentlemen—I have just returned from a trip through Kentucky Ohio and West Virginia undertaken for the purpose of examining the various distilleries in those districts and I am now more than ever confirmed in the opinion so often expressed to you that your distillery is the most complete and best conducted of any in the United States.
The careful selection of your grain the purity of the water the slower and more cautious method of distillation is what gives the NOBLE WHISKY its superior qualities and has gained for it the reputation which it universally sustains throughout the United States
Gratified that the 20 years devoted to the distillation of the CYRUS NOBLE WHISKY, has been attended with such happy results, I trust I may be spared to continue my labors in its interest, and that of its many patrons and consumers
I am Gentlemen,
Yours faithfully,
CYRUS NOBLE.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The great reputation which our Cyrus Noble Whisky has enjoyed in medical practice throughout the Eastern States and Europe for a period of nearly 25 years, prompts us to bring it to the notice of the Public of the Pacific Coast for similar use.
Its absolute purity, having by analysis been found to be entirely free from FUSEL OIL, and the improved quality imparted to it by its being retained in store for at least from 5 to 6 years after distillation, has given to the Physician a remedy long sought for in his own Materia Medica.
The certificates we hold of its efficacious use in the treatment of cases where NERVOUS PROSTRATION exists and vitality is at a low ebb, as is frequently observed in fevers endemic to our country, of DYSPEPSIA, with its whole train of gastric troubles, of [illegible] of the LIVER and the BLADDER, of CONSUMPTION affording effective and [illegible] relief to the afflicted victim, and of [illegible] diseases or blood poisoning [illegible] in its use as a disinfectant the sufferer from [illegible] death are all highly gratifying to us, and we believe we owe it to our numerous patrons on the coast to use every endeavor to introduce it here
Very respectfully,
LILIENTHAL & CO.

BAYARD TAYLOR'S TRAVESTY ON JOAQUIN MILLER.

Bayard Taylor's new book, "The Echo Club," contains the following. Any one who has read Joaquin Miller will recognize the cleverness of the lines below

THE FATE OF THE FRONTIERSMAN

That whisky jug! For, dry or wet,
My tale will need its help, you bet

We made for the desert, she and I,
Though life was lonesome, and love a lie
And she gazed on me with her glorious eye,
But all the same—I let her die!
For why? There was barely water for one
In the small canteen, and of provender none!
A splendid snake with an emerald scale
Slid before us along the trail.
With a famished parrot pecking its head
And, seizing a huge and dark brown rock
In her dark brown hands as you crush a crock
With the dark brown rock she crushed it dead
But ere her teeth in its flesh could meet
I laid her as dead as the snake at my feet,
And grabbed the snake for myself to eat.

The plain stretched wide from side to side
As bare and blistered and cracked and dried
As a moccasin sole of buffalo hide.
And my throat grew hot as I walked the trail
My blood in a sizzle, my muscles dry,
A crimson glare in my glorious eye,
And I felt my sinews wither and fail
Like one who has lavished, for fifty nights,
His pile in a hell of gambling delights
And is kicked at dawn from bottle and bed,
And sent to the gulches without a red
There was no penguin to pick or pluck,
No armadillo's throat to be stuck,
Not even a bilberry's ball of blue,
To slush my tongue with its indigo dew,
And the dry, brown palm trees rattled and roared,
Like the swish and swizzle of Walker's sword,
I was dish rubbed out; when far away,
A shanty, baked in the furnace of day,
And I petered on, for an hour or more,
Till I dropped, like mangy hound, at the door.

No soul to be seen; but a basin stood
On the bench, with a mess of dubious food,
Stringy and doughy and lumpy and thick
As the clay ere the flame has turned it to brick
I gobbled it up with a furious fire,
A prairie squall of hungry desire,
And strength came back, when, lo! a scream
Closed my stomach and burst my dream.
She stood before me, as lithe and tall
As a musqueet bush on Pino's wall,
Fierce as the Zuñi panther's leap,
Fair as the slim Apache sheep.
A lariat draped her broad brown hips,
And she stood and glared with parted lips,
While piercing stitches and maddening shoots
Ran through my body from brain to boots.
I would have slain her, but ere I could,
She [illegible] back her hair's brown [illegible] hood;
And screamed in a voice like a tiger cat's,
"You've gone and eat up my pison for rats!"
My blood grew limp and my hair grew hard
As the steely tail of the desert pard;
I sank at her feet, convulsed and pale,
And kissed in my anguish her brown toe nail,
You may rip the cloud from the frescoed sky,
Or tear the man from his place in the moon
Fur from the buzzard and plumes from the coon,
But you can't tear me from the truth I cry,
That life is loathsome and love a lie.
She lifted me up to her bare brown face,
She cracked my ribs in her brown embrace;
And there in the shanty side by side,
Each on the other's bosom died.

She's now the [illegible] trees of Buffalo Bill,
As pure as the heart of a lily still;
While I [illegible] kill all who cared for me,
And I'm just as lonely as I can be;
So pass the whisky we'll have a spree.

HELL GATE SHAFT AND TUNNELS.

The following is the best description of the excavation at Hallett's Point, blown up last Sunday, which we have seen:

The shaft is an irregular pentagon in shape, 117 by 62 feet, and having a depth of 33 feet below low water. A light wooden staircase leads down into the shaft, the bottom of which would be perfectly dry but for the wet sawdust with which it is covered. The sawdust is a precaution against concussion in case a tube should be accidentally dropped. From this shaft, ten main tunnels radiate, the tunnels varying in length from 185 feet to 300 feet in length—the average length being 270 feet. The width of the tunnels is about 14 feet, and their height varies from 22 feet at the opening to 7 feet at the end. The floor of the mine falls gradually, the roof of the excavation [illegible] rapidly—following the bed of the river above, and keeping up a general [illegible] of 10 feet of solid rock below the water. Cross galleries, of about the same height and width as the tunnels, traverse the mine at intervals of 30 feet, leaving the roof [illegible] by enormous columns of solid rock. These columns, however, are cut through by secondary tunnels and galleries, increasing the number of rock piers supporting the roof to 173, of about 10 feet in thickness, and giving an [illegible] length of tunnels and galleries of 7,425 feet [illegible] 4,857 feet of tunnels and 2,568 feet of galleries. In order to create this network of tunnels and galleries, it was necessary to blow out and remove no less than 47,461 cubic yards of rock. This work was begun seven years ago, and was finished in June, 1875, and since that time the pillars have been drilled in all directions, preparatory to the insertion of the cartridges for the grand and final blast. The pillars and the outside walls of the mine have been arranged in what are termed battery groups—that is, for connection with the electric battery which is to fire the blast. There are 184 of these groups, each group being drilled for twenty charges, making 3,680 charges in all. But two, and generally three, cartridges are charged into the same hole, according to circumstances and the judgment of the foreman who has charge of the mining department; so, till the charging is actually finished, no accurate figures as to the exact amount of explosive agents to be used can be given.

MAN'S MUSCULAR DEVELOPMENT.—Persons who are ambitious of becoming muscular will do well to study the result of an official inquiry which, according to the London Medical Examiner, has lately been instituted at a military gymnastic school in France. The inquiry, which extended over a period of six months: 1. That the muscular force is increased on the average fifteen to seventeen per cent., and occasionally from twenty five to thirty per cent., the force having a tendency to become equal on both sides of the body. 2. That the capacity of the chest is increased one-sixth at the lowest. 3. That the weight of the individual is increased from six to seven per cent., while the bulk of the body is diminished, thus showing that the profit is confined to the muscular system. The [illegible] of muscular force was generally confined to the first three months of the course. During the last moiety a serious diminution usually occurred; and here the dynamometer gave positive indication of the necessity of moderating or suspending the exercises. The truth is, gymnastic exercises, like all other things, require to be taken in moderation, and if indulged in to excess do infinitely more harm than good. In the meantime there is one simple method of taking exercise which, notwithstanding its advantages, is for some unaccountable reason wholly neglected by vast numbers of persons who are constantly complaining of the ill effects on their constitution of what they term "sedentary pursuits," namely, walking.—N. Y. Times.

The fat woman who was at the sea-cow and learned hog show near the Centennial grounds gives the Philadelphia Item the following account of her escape from the fire on Saturday night: "I can step at a 500 weight, and as the front stairs were on fire, I had to go down the back way. Now, the front stairs were built especially for me, of wood six inches thick, while the back steps were only fit for common light people like yourself. The first step I took crash went the wood, and I came near going myself. The hog was squealing awfully, and both the sea cows were roaring like mad bulls, but I wasn't frightened a bit. I got a long, smooth board that was in the room and placed it on the stairway. I tucked up my dress and slid down gracefully. I smashed everything at the bottom, and got my foot wedged. Just as I got free a noble fireman rushed into the building. 'Rescue me, rescue me!' I cried. He came toward me, and I threw myself into his arms. He fell with a shriek. My weight had broken both his legs!"

The Massachusetts Democrats do not seem to warm up much over their ticket. A reporter of the Boston Globe tried to talk with some of them about it the other day, but he did not make out a great deal. Mr. P. A. Collins said frankly there was no hope of electing Mr. Adams, but he believed the nomination would help the national ticket. Another leading Democrat was of a like opinion. Ex-Gov. Gaston refused to talk at all. He would not say what he thought of the nomination, merely declaring that he would support it.

Says the St. Louis Republican: "It has been observed by frequenters of watering places that the female swimmer never learns to use her other limbs as gracefully as she does her arms. This fact should be considered by the strong-minded sisterhood as natural proof that lovely woman's mission is to embrace and not to kick."
